POLICY AIMS

- To maintain consistent and high-quality education when remote education is necessary due to instances of Covid-19.
- To maintain communication between teachers and pupils.
- To ensure that all pupils complete work to the best of their ability within their individual circumstances.
- To support pupils in remaining happy, healthy and aspirational learners committed to their education.
- To support parents and carers by providing clear expectations of all stakeholders.
- To ensure that robust safeguarding measures continue to be effective in identifying and supporting vulnerable children.
- To ensure that children are protected from the risks associated with using devices connected to the internet.

SCHOOL AIMS

At Buckland Primary School our aim is to be an inspirational place of learning where:

- We foster respect for one another, the school environment and the local community.
- Have high expectations of both behaviour and achievement in all areas.
- Strive to ensure equal opportunity for everyone, regardless of gender, ethnic and cultural backgrounds, beliefs and intellectual and physical ability.
- Use a variety of teaching methods to deliver the Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum and the National Curriculum for KS1 and KS2.
- Allow learners to engage in a range of practical and meaningful tasks that address different learning styles.
- We encourage 'risk' taking, promoting independent learning so children accept some responsibility for their own progress.
- Strive to develop positive home/school links; actively involving parents in the life and work of the school.
- Liaise with local schools and the community as a whole.

With an increased in use of all types of social media and virtual access to learning professional learning, teaching and communication this guidance sets out clear protocol for staff to manage risk and behaviour online. Core messages should include the protection of pupils, the school and an individual when publishing any material online.

Expectations for teachers' professional conduct are set out in Teachers' Standards 2013, the Online Safety Policy and the school Staff Code of Conduct (and Staff handbook). Ofsted's online safety Inspection Framework reviews how a school protects and educates staff and pupils in their use of technology, including the measures that would be expected to be in place to intervene and support should a particular issue arise. Schools are increasingly using social media as a powerful learning tool and means of communication. It is important that this is carried out in a safe and responsible way.

During COVID-19, if a school or class bubble is directed to close by Public Health England, the Department for Education has published guidance for schools:

- Use a curriculum sequence that allows access to high quality online and offline resources, that is linked to the school's curriculum expectations
- Give access to high quality remote education resources

- Select the online tools that will be consistently used across the school in order to allow interaction, assessment and feedback, and make sure staff are trained in their use
- Provide printed resources, such as text books and workbooks, for pupils

When teaching pupils remotely, settings are expected to:

- Set assignments so that pupils have meaningful and ambitious work each day in a number of different subjects
- Teach a planned and well sequenced curriculum so that knowledge and skills are built incrementally, with a good level of clarity about what is intended to be taught and practised in each subject
- Provide frequent, clear explanations of new content, delivered by a teacher in the setting or via high quality curriculum resources
- Gauge how well pupils are progressing through the curriculum, using questions and other suitable tasks and set a clear expectation on how regularly teachers will check work
- Enable teachers to adjust the pace or difficulty of what is being taught in response to questions or assessments, including, where necessary, revising material or simplifying explanations more to ensure pupils' understanding
- Plan a programme that is of equivalent length to the core teaching pupils would receive in their setting including contact with teachers

The Education Endowment Foundation (EEF) has found that the effectiveness of remote teaching is determined by many of the same factors as determine the effectiveness of live classroom teaching. For example:

- Ensuring pupils receive clear explanations
- Supporting growth in confidence with new material through scaffolded practice
- Application of new knowledge or skills
- Enabling pupils to receive feedback on how to progress

These characteristics of effective teaching are more important than the medium of delivery, be it in the 'live' classroom or through remote provision. It is important that schools consider how to transfer and adapt into remote provision what we already know about effective teaching in the live classroom.

Evidence shows that lengthy or open-ended projects or research activities are in most cases less likely to lead to strong progress or outcomes. Such approaches should generally be avoided in favour of the more interactive, teacher-led approaches to delivering the school's planned curriculum.
